

Unseen #4 – The Bake Sale

Hello, my name is Sarah, and I'm part of the student council at Haifa High School. We decided to organize a bake sale to raise funds for a local animal shelter. My friend, David, and I were in charge of the cookies and cakes.

Everything was going smoothly until the day of the bake sale. We realized that the cookies were all chocolate chip, but we had promised a variety. Panic set in. Our teacher, Mrs. Goldstein, suggested a quick fix—decorate the cookies with different toppings to add variety.

I noticed David was acting distant and not participating in the decorating. Confused, I decided to talk to him. David confessed that he had misunderstood the instructions and baked all chocolate chip cookies. He felt guilty and didn't know how to fix it.

We quickly brainstormed and decided to use the toppings creatively. David's artistic skills shined as he turned the cookies into mini masterpieces. The bake sale was a hit, and we raised more money than expected! Our friendship grew stronger, and we learned the value of adaptability and clear communication.

Questions

1. What do Sarah and David enjoy doing together?

2. What was the purpose of the bake sale?

3. Why was Sarah confused?

4. What had David been doing without informing Sarah?

5. What could Sarah have done differently? Offer some suggestions.

6. In your opinion, is David a good friend?

Answers

1. Sarah and David enjoy organizing events together, like the bake sale for the student council.

Mentioned in the first paragraph.

2. The purpose of the bake sale was to raise funds for a local animal shelter.

Mentioned in the first paragraph.

3. Sarah was confused because David was acting distant and not participating in the cookie decorating.

Mentioned in the third paragraph.

4. David had misunderstood the instructions and baked all chocolate chip cookies.

Revealed in the third paragraph.

5. Sarah could have communicated more clearly with David about the variety of cookies needed for the bake sale.

Implied in the story; the mix-up could have been avoided with clearer communication.

6. In my opinion, David is a good friend because he admitted his mistake and contributed creatively to solve the problem.

David's actions and the bake sale's success are highlighted in the fourth paragraph.